

Urgency Ordinance Prohibiting Needle Exchanges Passes 5-0

By wstockwin@hughes.net

News that a needle exchange and distribution program had submitted an application in July 2023 to operate in Placer County was enough to prompt an urgency ordinance prohibiting syringe service programs on the city council's September 27 meeting agenda.

Placer County and the cities of Auburn and Rocklin have already adopted similar ordinances. Other cities are expected to follow suit.

Urgency ordinances take effect immediately with only one public reading before adoption, if at least four members of the council vote in favor. The ordinance can be invalidated, however, if the city's urgency finding is challenged in court. For that reason the city attorney advised adopting an identical, non-urgency ordinance at the same time as a backup replacement in case the urgency finding is denied in court.

The backup ordinance will get a second reading at the October 11 council meeting. Without further comment from the public or council, the item passed unanimously.

The California Department of Public Health (CDPH) is authorized by state code to approve syringe service programs (aka syringe exchange programs) to provide and collect syringes for people who inject drugs.

SANE (Safer Alternatives through Networking & Education) submitted the application, and estimates distributing 200,000 syringes annually in Placer County. The council felt the proposed program would result in an excess of needles far beyond the needs of Colfax or Placer County, which would invariably result in needles being disposed of in public places.

would be unable to prohibit a syringe exchange program because it had no regulatory process in place to do so. Adopting both ordinances provides immediate prohibition with the urgency ordinance, and long-term prohibition when the regular ordinance is adopted on November 11, 30 days after its second reading.

Late Update: on September 28, SANE withdrew its application to distribute syringes in Placer County.

In the absence of any official business, the September 13 city council meeting hosted a presentation by the Placer County Transportation Planning Agency (PCPTA).

Brass Groups Spark Colfax Musical Scene

Story and Photos by Alan Shuttleworth

Remember The Music Man, the 1962 movie musical? It was the story of Harold Hill and is set in a 1910 Iowa small town.

Hill eventually turns the sleepy town into an energetic musical happening.

Enter Colfax's Doug Thorley, who has also taken big steps to creThorley's favorite ways to share his instrumental skills, is the creation of a quartet of tuba players called Tubamonium. Keep your eyes and ears open as you never know when this group will appear.

They have performed at the Roy Toms Plaza, the Colfax Farmer's Market and the entrance to the Fruit ate a positive musical climate in Colfax.

A local professional brass player who regularly performs with the Santa Cruz Symphony, Thorley has a passion for bringing music to tiny Colfax. One of Exchange Building. Another of Thorley's performing interests, is a group of local trombone players called The Paleobones. In Music Man, there is a song called "76 Trombones." While a little short of 76 trombones, Paleobones warm Doug Thorley's new house with music.

Thorley introduced 14 of the 20+ Paleobones at a recent rehearsal in his Colfax home. Many members of this group have grey hair (hence the moniker Paleobones) but are all first-rate talents who perform at many local venues including a variety of local churches. So keep your eyes and ears open and try to stay tuned to advertisements regarding any of Thorley's musical groups and when they will again be performing locally.

If you can score on that kind of calendar planning, I know that you will be treated to a fun filled and joyous event.

Doing his best to minimize the acronymic blizzard, Mike Costa, senior transportation planner, briefed the council with updates on the Regional Transportation Plan (RTP), the Unmet Transit Needs Process (UTN), and the Comprehensive Operational Analysis/Short Range Transit Plan (COA/SRTP).

RTP – The plan is updated every five years, and the new update will extend the plan until 2050. PCTPA is required to involve the public in its planning process, with the objective of assessing public opinion on transportation priorities. A second round of public outreach focused on specific regional projects began in September. Three public workshops are planned for October.

UTN – This annual public input identifies transit needs not currently being met. PCTPA began the public outreach process in September. That process will include an online survey, e-mails, and social media posts.

COA/SRTP – Placer County, Auburn, and Roseville Transit will be taking a comprehensive look at their entire transit systems after the pandemic to determine how to best get riders to where they need to go within the county. For more information on these projects contact Mike Costa at (530) 823-4029.

The second reading of revised Ordinance 552 passed on a 3-2 vote. The ordinance will take effect on October 13.

> October city council meetings will be on the 11th and 25th.

Imagine all the trees disappearing? Do you know what would happen without trees? Trees are so important to the environment that without trees our Earth will become dangerous. Trees can help the environment by providing shelters and homes for animals, and also provide oxygen.

Trees provide shelters and homes for many different animals. For example, when there is extreme heat, animals such as bats, raccoons, squirrels, mice, opossums and bears go under trees for shade and shelter. Those animals will also be close to their food sources. Animals are important to our environment. Without trees animals will die because they don't have shelter, food, or sites for reproduction.

Animals also help plants reproduce by carrying pollen from one plant to another plant. Animals also spread plant seeds. Animals are a big part of the environment and without animals many plants will die.

Trees provide oxygen for many living things. For example, trees give us oxygen and store carbon dioxide. Without trees we wouldn't have any extra oxygen, and without extra oxygen the soil would become full of super dangerous chemicals and pollutants that are usually filtered by trees. Trees also play an important role in creating healthier and safer communities.

Trees keep our air clean, filter our water, slow storm surge and flooding in our cities. This is why trees are so important in providing us oxygen and helping us to have a healthier and safer city.

There would be less shelter for animals and less oxygen in the air. The next time you are on a walk take a minute to appreciate all of the trees.

Trees are our superheroes!

Railroad Days, 2023

Railroad Days began over 25 years ago as Founders Day. The name of the event changed to Railroad Days in 2000, when it was taken over by the Placer Sierra Railroad Heritage Society. In 2018 Fred and Renee Abbott rebooted the event and have been the chairs ever since. In 2019 the Abbotts created a non-profit financial status for the event that it still holds today.

There is always good food to be found downtown.

Last, but certainly not least, I would like to introduce our Member of the Month: Jimi of Jimi Fortune Jewelry Services. You have probably seen this jewelry shop near the post office in downtown Colfax and wondered who owns it and what they sell. I would like to introduce our friend, Jimi, and tell you a little bit about Jimi Fortune Jewelry Services. Jimi has been handling all things jewelry, from creating custom pieces, to repairing priceless treasures, to fixing watch batteries and bands for the last 34 years. Like his art, he has custom designed his shop into a place where local artists can showcase their offerings such as custom hats and shirts, woodwork, glass art and enameling.

Tapping into his past as the lead singer of a punk band, Jimi is passionate about supporting local artists and pouring back into the community he loves. He keeps his prices competitive and doesn't let this affect his workmanship negatively. Jimi loves the sense of community that is Colfax and the small-town feel of knowing your neighbors.

To find out more about Jimi Fortune Jewelry Services please visit his website at www.jimifortune. com. His telephone number is (530) 303-7674, and his current hours of operation are Tuesday–Friday 10:00a.m. – 4:00p.m. (Please call ahead to make sure there is someone at the shop before dropping jewelry off.)
