Auditor Says: “City In Strong Financial Condition”

January Council Meetings

At its January 8 meeting the council heard a presentation on the city audit report for the fiscal year that ended June 30, 2019. Ingrid Shepline, managing partner for the auditing firm of Richardson and Co., said that the city had “adequate reserves” and was in “strong financial condition.”

Shepline also pointed out that instead of the projected deficit, the city had ended the previous fiscal year with a surplus in the General Fund. She said the city’s only debt was the $7.9 million still owed the state revolving fund on the original $12 million loan to build the waste water treatment plant.

She finished her presentation saying; “We found no compliance issues with state regulations, and no discrepancies needing adjustment.” She called that “rare” and applauded the city’s financial director, Laurie Van Groningen, for producing such a clean audit.

Later in the meeting the council unanimously approved a resolution authorizing the city manager to enter into an agreement, not to exceed $25,000, with

Kyrah Thompson Wins Lions’ High School Speakers Contest

“Homelessness in California” is a fiercely debated issue. Four Colfax High School seniors had lots of constructive solution ideas at the Colfax Lions Club Students Speakers Contest held recently at TJ’s Restaurant. Speakers suggested changes in housing, mental and general health services as well as simply caring for our fellow man. Winner, Kyrah Thompson said, “Homelessness is more than a problem for government. It is a problem for humanity.” Colfax Lions Club President, Rose Craighead said, “The students had investigated the problem and were very well prepared.” Foresthill Lion and Lions Foothill Zone Chairperson, Helene Smith said, “It was interesting to hear a discussion of homelessness from the young people of today.” Smith is also the Chairperson for the upcoming Zone competition and invited Kyrah to participate in that contest.

City Hazardous Vegetation Ordinance Workshop

By wstockwin@hughes.net

One of the primary lessons to be learned from the wildfire that destroyed Paradise, California is that allowing hazardous vegetation to go unabated can be a fatal mistake.

The entire city council, along with the city manager and city attorney, hosted a public workshop on January 15 to review a

After initial abatement is performed, property owners will be required to regularly maintain their defensible space in accordance with requirements set forth in the ordinance.

The proposed ordinance will add Chapter 8.32 to the Municipal Code and addresses the responsibilities of landowners, neighbors and vacant lots.

as primary ingress and egress routes – as a public nuisance that must be abated by the property owners to create defensible space around those structures and roadways.

The ordinance does not require or expect removal of entire trees, but will also require:

- All trees, hazardous vegetation and ladder fuels within defensible space areas to be pruned and removed to a minimum height of 15 feet above the ground.
- Removal of tree limbs extending to within 10 feet of a chimney or stovepipe.
- Removal of all climbing vines from trees and structures.
- Maintenance of all vegetation adjacent to or overhanging a structure free of dead or dying wood within a 10-foot distance from the structure.
- Keeping roofs and rain gutters free of leaves, pine needles and other hazardous material.

proposed amendment to Colfax Municipal Code Title 8 to require hazardous vegetation abatement and establishment of defensible space that will apply to all parcels throughout the city.

Defensible space is defined as that area which is adjacent to each side of a building or structure and must be cleared of all combustible material, hazardous vegetation, brush, flammable vegetation, or combustible growth.

“The major issue,” said CalFire Battalion Chief Brian Egan, “is getting neighbors to clean up their property.”

Specifically, the ordinance will declare hazardous vegetation and combustible materials – within 100 feet of a structure, or within 10 feet immediately adjacent to roadways serving

Unimproved parcels will have to meet the same requirements, as well as cutting and removing all weeds and grasses down to a height of six inches.

When a house is less than 100 feet from a neighboring property line, and hazardous vegetation on the neighboring property presents a fire hazard, the owner of the neighboring property will be responsible for creating the required additional defensible space.

In all cases if a property owner fails to abate hazardous vegetation, or to maintain structure and roadway clearance requirements, the City may abate the nuisance – without further notice – at the property owner's expense.

Enforcement will not begin until January 2021. The ordinance will receive its first public hearing at one of the city council's February meetings.

SCI Consulting for further cannabis ordinance and fee development.

The January 22 meeting was a short agenda that got everybody out the door by 6:58 p.m. Councilmember Douglas was absent.

By unanimous vote the council waived a second reading and adopted Ordinance 540, amending the municipal code and clarifying the way sewer service charges are assessed on multi-tenant commercial buildings.

Two other agenda items also received unanimous votes:

- The Village Oaks development (Iowa Hill Rd.) tentative subdivision map was extended for 12 months
- The council authorized the city attorney to draft a letter stating that the City of Colfax assumes financial responsibility of removing the Chinese Monument. The city is being considered as a permanent site for the Chinese Monument to the contribution of Chinese workers to the building of the first Transcontinental Railroad.

Chinese Monument founder, Steven Lee, had requested a letter from the city attorney stating the City of Colfax will assume the responsibility for removing the monument in the future, however unlikely that might be.

The suggested monument location in Colfax would be on the Depot Green.

It's Been Wet, But More Rain Needed

Colfax has received 20.5 inches of rain so far this season, which is five inches under what we had at the end of January 2019. It took a wet February last year, when 20 inches fell through the month, to boost the total to a low-normal of 45 inches heading into March. We eventually finished the wet season last year with 62.7 inches, but it took a wetter than normal May and a final June thunderstorm to get us there.

Placer County's Flag Has Been Redesigned

The redesign incorporates the popular branding and design elements of Placer County's logo and color palette, which were adopted in 2015. The county seal and year of incorporation are most prominent on the flag, along with six stars representing the county's six incorporated cities. Swaths of blue and green signify the region's abundant water resources and forests. Twin Peaks Mountain is also featured.

Colfax Chamber of Commerce Notes and Events

Welcome from your Colfax Area Chamber of Commerce.

Your Colfax Area Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors, Tim, Amy, Andrea, Randy, Bob, Rita, Paul, Linda, Sally, Ted, and Eric, wish you all the best for the new year.

This year we are looking forward to expanding our support, promotion, and representation to our businesses, service groups, and associates. We have a large area to cover from Applegate to Cisco Grove and Chicago Park to Iowa Hill and are looking forward to a very busy year.

Our Web site, www.ColfaxChamber.com is building every day with our weekly event notifications. Our calendar fills up weekly with events, classes, meetings, advertisements, and so much more.

What is happening in the Colfax Area can be found on our Web site. All of our business members are listed on our site, which has been growing over the past year.

We will continue with our monthly mixers and our morning, Coffee and Conversation meetings. These are excellent venues for our businesses, service groups, and associates to interact and share ideas, concerns and solutions for our area.

Plus, we get to meet and greet many new members and a chance to encourage non-members to join our Chamber of Commerce and receive all the benefits we offer.

Call or e-mail us for more information to become a member. Phone 530-346-8888 or e-mail colfaxareachamber@gmail.com. Or stop on by our office at 99 South Railroad Street, Colfax Ca.

Grand Openings and Ribbon Cuttings will continue to grow along with the growth of our city and surrounding area. New businesses, housing subdivisions, hotels, and so much more are in our near future.

Along with providing Amtrak train and bus information, our Visitor Center will be reorganizing and adding new items for sale. The Center is open Monday through Friday, 9:30 till 3:00.

We continue to welcome new volunteers to help out and rotate duties with our existing volunteers. No experience is needed. Providing a positive and helpful experience for our customers is all we ask. Please stop by and join our team.

This year we will also continue our participation and support for 3rd of July, Railroad Days, Winterfest, and the many events our area provides. All of these events continue to grow and this year will be no exception.

We will be having our Annual Meeting and Luncheon in March. Date and time are still being finalized and notification will be following soon. This year we will be holding our Luncheon at the VFW Hall, during which we will review our past year and present our goals for 2020. Delicious Indian cuisine will be supplied by Paul Raj and his family.

The Scoop Thurman Community Service Award will also be presented for one of our outstanding community members, and new Board of Directors will be nominated and voted for.

If you would like to join our Board of Directors, please e-mail, call or stop by our Chamber office and request to be added to the election list. Thank you all for your continued support and we look forward to working for you in 2020.

City's New Broadcast system for meetings

Have you checked out city hall's new and vastly improved council meeting broadcast system? If not, it's as easy as going to the city's Web site, <http://colfax-ca.gov/>, clicking the 'Watch Meetings' button on the Home page, then reaching for the popcorn.

The new system was developed by Vision Quest, the city's IT service provider, and debuted at the last meeting in December after being in development for six months.

City manager Wes Heathcock said all of the system hardware and installation cost $4,000, and that the subscription for the Boxcast video streaming service will run another $1,200 a year. That includes two cameras, with one feeding Wave and the other feeding the city Web site.

Other system features include:

- The ability to show either the council chambers or switch to a view of the chamber video screen so that viewers at home can also watch and follow along with presentations being shown the council.
- Much improved sound from all microphones in the council chamber.
- Meeting videos will be archived for 90 days on Boxcast, and essentially forever on YouTube.
- Closed captioning for the hearing impaired is also available.
